[BY TELEGRAPH, TO THE OREGONIAN]

Daniel Drew a Day Behind Hand

NEW YORK March 31—Daniel Drew is on Wall street to-day selling contracts which were due yesterday.

Better Feeling in Financial Matters

NEW YORK March 31—There was better feeling in financial circles to-day and a general recovery in the unsettled condition of affairs at the close from the unsettled condition of affairs at the close of yesterday. Daniel Drew was on the street to-day settling all his contracts and there was a marked change of feeling toward the old man

The Times on the Gold and Stock Market.

NEW YORK March 31—Speaking of the common on Wall street and its causes the Times says it appears that Daniel Drew for some time past has been selling securities chiefly gold and stood les on stocks, and puts on gold the recent large advance in stock induced some holders to present their privileges for liquidation and up to yesterday all presented were duly honored. The handsome gain resulting from the heavy advance of Monday operated with others to demand the delivery of stock, far beyond that called for in their privileges. Drew promised to settle for his contracts to-day caused holders to give up. The large decline in gold caused holders of gold to ask for a place to put gold but Drew did not put in an appearance and anxious inquirers and not put in an appearance and anxious inquirers were badly assured by brokers that Drew was ill unable to leave his residence to attend to business. This was a great disappointment, and not a few were unconscious enough to express doubts as to the illness of Drew. The dissatisfaction on the stock market, or Drew's absence from Wall street is not to depress prices and generally unsettle values but as soon as it was understood that any permanent default on his part would place a number of speculators operating on his calls short of stock, the feeling changed and prices began to advance just as the day closed and prices began to advance just as the day closed. The effect stock exchange was closed for the day. The effect in the gold room was even more decided than in the stock exchange and operations there are gen-erally interpreted as meaning a disruption of the clique lately manipulating the market.

Further Acts of Violence by Miners.

HAZELTON Pa. March 31—Another crowd of armed men have started from Hazleton for Upper Lehigh to stop the men employed by the Lehigh Coal and Navigation from loading coal at that place. Captain Coxe of Drifton has left here with a detachment of police armed to resist any attempt at violence on the part of the strikers. Our correspondent at Mauch Chunk says that the rioting has been suppressed for the present by the presence of the military. Our correspondent at Wilkesbarre reports that the miners in that region are organizing with the intention of resisting the reduction of wages. Governor Hoyt has issued a proclamation calling upon the citizens to assist the authorities in preserving the peace.

THE TILTON-BEECHER CASE.

Smaller Attendance.

NEW YORK, March 31—The attendance in the Brooklyn city court this morning was in marked contrast with the crush and crowd of yesterday. Beecher was absent as was also Mrs. Tilton and her friends. The examination of

was continued. He testified that in an interview with Hamilton in December last the latter denounced Beecher as a liar perjurer and adulterer and threatened him with personal violence

Cross-examination. His head was bandaged nothing new or important that in 1871 or '72 Tilton spoke to without prosecuting some one for slandering his wife. Witness here remarked he didn't think he could imagine names, and after a whispered consultation between Tilton and Tilton, the former told witness he need not. Witness continued Tilton said this person had reported to the family of a Mrs. Carlis that Mrs. Tilton was a lewd woman that he saw her husband of that party telling the story, and thought there was no remedy but in prosecution.

Witness repeated Moulton's charges against Beecher made in 1871 and added that he (Beecher) used to drive him from Plymouth church and Brooklyn. When Beecher called him a blackmailer he (Nicolton) thought it was time he was acting on the defensive. He said if Witness' brother signed the report of the committee he would have to make a statement which would cross my throat cut and break my heart

Re-direct examination.—Witness said when Tilton spoke of a person slandering his wife he said the story told was that she committed adulters with Beecher.

Mrs. Mary F. Perkins,

Sister of H W Beecher was next. The witness testified that she spent the winter of 1871-2 with her brother, coming there in December 1871 and staying till April, 1872. Was in the habit of receiving her brother's guests, but did not in that winter see Mrs Tilton. The first week in June 1873 while witness was at her home in Boston received a letter from her brother Henry came on the first Thursday of the month (witness thought the 5th of June) and took her on a visit to ex-Governor Claflin's at New Haven. The second conversation took place in the church preached in Murray's church, Boston. Witness heard him. He stayed at Newtonville about a week and was not in New York during that visit nor any time long enough to go half way there. This closed the examination. Counsel for the prosecution waived cross-examination and a recess was taken.

Beecher came unattended into court shortly after the trial opened. Lovers was in court only a few minutes and after the cross examination of Storrs was finished

James Freeland,

One of the arbitrators between Bowen and Tilton was called and related substantially the story of the arbitration as told by Shalin. The cross examination was brief and elicited nothing new

Mrs. Jennie Moore,

A young married lady of Brooklyn was the next witness. She testified to having had Kate Carey in her employment, that she would not believe her under oath that Kate told her she never saw anything wrong between Beecher and Mrs Tilton and whoever said so were liars. Cross-examination developed nothing

Robert Moore, husband of the last witness corroborated her testimony

James Redpath

Was the next witness. He testified that after the publication of the Woodhull story Tilton gave him the "True Story" to read. He said he didn't want Elizabeth to know anything about it. This was at Tilton a house. Remembered meeting Mrs Tilton one day in the hall when she had a decidedly black eye, her face which witness thought was caused by some domestic trouble. Witness went into Tilton a bedroom and found him lying on the bed with a troubled expression on his face and the manuscript of the true story lying there. He said to himself that Beecher had threatened to deny the true story if it was published. He seemed in a fever or about to go crazy. Witness was shown and identified the copy of the true story as the one shown him by Tilton. He said Tilton gave it to him and he copied a portion of it until he got tired. Cross examination developed the fact that the witness at the time Tilton told witness about the trouble with his wife, to deny the true story if published said to Til ou that he had not told him the whole truth and Tilton told he had not. Witness could not remember whether Tilton gave a reason for denying in such a fevorish state or for writing the true story.

Beecher to go on the Stand To-Day.

At the conclusion of the cross examination of Redpath ten minutes of the hour of adjournment Judge Neilson told counsel for the defense to proceed with the testimony as ten hours and the prosecution pending the defendant on the stand but perhaps it would be better to defer it till to-morrow which was agreed to and the court adjourned

Yellow Fever at Havana

Yellow Fever at Key West.

WASHINGTON March 31—A telegram from Key West announces that the yellow fever had greatly increased within the past few days that the navy vessels on quarantine at the southern ports would leave immediately for colder quarters that the epidemic was spreading and that deaths were occurring in Key West. Surgeons have been sent to surgeons at Pensacola Mobile New Orleans and Galveston to be on the lookout for yellow fever and promptly report its appearance. The U S Steamer Despatch sent to convey the senatorial party to Mexico was at Key West to-day coaling preparatory to increasing the solicitude in Washington not only for the naval officers, but for prominent persons composing the excursion party.

The Mexican Raids.

The Secretary of War has telegraphed the commanding officer of the department of Texas to use every effort to prevent Mexican raids across the Rio Grande

The Governor of Texas Invokes the Aid of the President to Repel Mexican Raids

The President received the following dispatch to-day dated Austin Texas, March 31st.

His Excellency U S Grant President of the United States—Sir Depredations of organized bands of robbers from the Republic of Mexico have of late increased in frequency and atrocity which threatens the depopulation of the Lower Rio Grande country. The alarm and excitement which the Mexican raids in this country have created is unprecedented in the history of the State. Our people are determined on desperate measures unless a guarantee of protection must result in a general break up of the settlement. On the 12th of this month a large party of these robbers penetrated into the inner settlements of Nueces and Corpus Christi robbing stores and murdering and capturing citizens and capturing and destroying United States mail. Troops to the number sufficient to protection for the people of the country against these depredations of the Mexicans cannot be spared from the Rio Grande since they have been almost constantly employed for several months past and are increasing in force and boldness. The entire country is in a state of excitement and consternation. Private property and people in the towns even hold themselves in constant readiness for defense. I trust your excellency will see the propriety to give security to the people of the Rio Grande border in view of the assurances I now give you that an extreme necessity exists for it

Very respectfully,
RICHARD COKE
Governor of Texas

The Secretary of War in the absence of the President replied to the telegram saying to the Governor that orders will be given to the military authorities to take immediate steps towards the protection of the people of Texas on the Mexican frontier

AN UNPLEASANT MATTER

[From the Salem Record]

Elsewhere we publish an article, furnished us from a reliable source, questioning the character of Mr. P. Hiatt, who has made an appeal through our columns, to the people of Oregon, for the suffering in Kansas. The writer left Kansas within six months and claims acquaintance with Mr Hiatt. He furnishes us embodied in his communication, an extract from the Lawrence (Kansas) Home Journal that refers to the wife of Mr Hiatt in Kansas, in a very unpleasant manner

Mr Hiatt does not claim to be, nor has he accredited agent for the people of Kansas but states that he acts in that capacity from his own free will. It seems that he has been a teacher in California for some years and as such has corresponded with Dr Rowland, our State superintendent of education. He was introduced to us by Dr. R and we know nothing more of him. When he came, we cheerfully gave him a hearing in our columns and we are obliged, from consideration for the public to publish the article which appears to-day. We do not agree with the writer in the aspect of the case the people of Oregon can safely answer the appeal made by Mr Hiatt

Following is the communication referred to as coming from a very reliable source

WASTE OF KANSAS

MR EDITOR I have noticed articles in your paper of late appealing for aid for the suffering of Kansas. I left Kansas last fall and know there is suffering there to be relieved, and would like to see something done for the people there. But I notice these appeals come from P Hiatt agent. I knew one of that name in Kansas and lived in the same town with him and happen to know something about the second cousin of the following extract from the Lawrence Home Journal which was published about three years ago and the statements contained in which I know to be true

SENSATION IN LUDORA—DISAPPEARANCE OF ONE OF ITS CITIZENS UNDER PECULIAR CIRCUMSTANCES—DISAPPEARANCE OF A WIDOW AT THE SAME TIME—AN ELOPEMENT TO ALL APPEARANCES

Certain incidents of a highly interesting character came to our knowledge yesterday furnished by a trustworthy citizen of Ludora, which when put together, assume the shape of an elopement. The parties are Mr Pleasant Hiatt, well known in this county and a wid ow lady—a Mrs Williford.

The circumstances, as our informant furnishes them, are as follows. To most of our readers in the city and county Mr P Hiatt is well known. He has lived in this county many years and has always been more or less connected with the public schools, ever taking a prominent part in all teachers' meetings in this district. He is married, and lived to all appearance on very good terms with his wife in Eudora.

Mrs Williford came to this county from Ohio about four years ago with her husband and settled in Eudora. Shortly after their arrival Mr Williford died and Mrs W returned to Ohio. About two years since she came to this county and took up her residence with her brother in law who lives about one mile from Eudora. Shortly after her return, through the instrumentality of Mr Hiatt Mrs W obtained the position of teacher of the Reno school house. During the last few months Mr Hiatt has been observed making very frequent visits to Reno and as it is very difficult to conceal one's actions in the country our informant says that it became well known in the neighborhood that Mr H is frequent journeyings in the direction of Reno were for the purpose of meeting the teacher of the Reno school. This was established without the shadow of a doubt. In the meantime Mr Hiatt frequently spoke and sold some lots in Eudora to Mr Pills which were however sold afterwards to Mr Nooker some errors appearing in the deed to Pills taking Mr Nooker's note for $100 and a mortgage on the property for security.

Three weeks ago Mrs Williford was discharged from her school, or to speak more politely was asked to resign. She came to Lawrence to have an interview and left a little property in Eudora for sale.

Last Thursday Mr Hiatt left home telling his wife that he was going to Sedgwick county to look after claims. He was in Lawrence the next day and sold the lots he had already transferred to some farmer for $60.

It was subsequently ascertained that while in this city he met Mrs Williford and took an other route from that lead her to Sedgwick county. To some persons who had been watching the two closely for some time past there is no doubt that Mr Hiatt and Mrs Williford have eloped.

The P Hiatt referred to boys we met California at that time with the woman lived with her there about two years. He has a wife and has not resided in Kansas since I heard of his being there last fall a short time but he returned again to California and how he can clear to represent Kansas I cannot see. I know that he does not command the confidence of respectable people there. I am willing to face him at any time and place and tell what more I know of him to his face whenever it is necessary.

A KANSAS EMIGRANT

Having published an appeal from P Hiatt for aid for the Kansas sufferers we deem it our duty to give place to the foregoing

LYNCH LAW AND RIOT IN LIVINGSTON COUNTY ILLINOIS

[From the Pontiac (Ill.) Sentinel]

On Sunday evening last, an affair took place in Leman township that would have disgraced the border ruffians of Kansas, or the White Leaguers of Louisiana. About 7:30 in the evening a party of three men visited the residence of the late Cyrus B. Jones, who was murdered on the 8th of the present month and asked for his son W H. Jones. The young man presented himself, and one of the party told him that he was Deputy Sheriff and had a warrant for him for killing his father and that he had better go along with them quietly to Pontiac, where he would be safe as there was a mob raised at Cayuga ready to lynch him. The prescribed officer to execute a warrant in this county proceeded to obey virtue of which the trustees and Mr. Lick will join in the execution of a deed to new trustees which deed will jealously and securely guard the public interests created under the original trust and at the same time make adequate provision for Mr Lick's relatives.

Welcome Rain.

YREKA, March 31—We had a nice rain last week, which was of material benefit to crops in many parts of the country. Streams from the Siskiyou mountains are higher than at any time previous this winter. Sunday morning we had another shower which, after some hours, changed to snow

POLITICIANS LEARNING SOMETHING

[From the N Y Tribune]

In the letter of senator Wright of Iowa lately published it was said that gentleman declines a re-election and significantly refers to a return to private life, he takes occasion to urge upon his party the necessity of raising the tariff on partial duties required for conditions for public office. He had observed what was so apparent to thinking minds, that no concerted and active politics but which many politicians seem determined not to see or acknowledge that the people are in earnest in demanding the selection of the best men for office and the withdrawal of the bad leaders who have wrought so much mischief to the country and brought their own party to defeat everywhere he says, the people are demanding that good men shall come to the front and bad men take back seats. To unite and strengthen the party and make it again successful he believes it is only necessary to give the people such candidates as the people have perfect confidence in—men of ability and integrity whose nominations will give the assurance of a purified action on the part of the leaders to answer the demand which comes up from all quarters. He is quite certain that the people have a desire to repudiate the Republican party and that any such construction of the elections of last fall is shortsighted and erroneous.

Much of this goes without saying. The action of the people in their primary capacity in defeating many bad nominations for Congress as for instance that of Mr. Butler in Massachusetts, could hardly be misunderstood unless by those who were wilfully blind to the logic of events. Aftercards when such leader as Carpenter and Chandler were repudiated by our own party in legislatures where it had the power, it became still more clear that throughout the whole body of the people the purpose of purification was stirring, and that the people were in downright earnest about it. It has not been easy to beat this into the heads of the leading statesmen and managing men that the people were ed of this fact, and made some talking, pointing to the signs and declaring that rather than have such things go on longer would call back the Democrats to power. The day of the Puget Sound fir has already arrived. The production that a great ship-building interests would be created on this coast is about to be verified. The Board of Marine Underwriters foresaw the tendency of the times last year when they authorized the publication, by C T Hopkins, of a pamphlet on our ship building interests. This pamphlet not only set forth the demand for good risks instead of the poor ones the underwriters are compelled to take but considered the question of shipbuilding in all its bearings and made some telling points. In one of its tabular exhibits it appears that in 1873 foreign and coastwise owned vessels carried of our to face from this port and cargoes on which they carried $20,000,000 or about one eighth of the whole. Of this only eight carriers were carried in our own vessels which earned $2,000,000 or about one quarter of the whole. The same authority classifies as follows the inward freights by sail during 1873 from foreign and eastern Atlantic ports by 306 foreign and eastern owned vessels $4,345,846 by 33 San Francisco owned vessels, 9,850,113 from these figures it appears that the earnings of San Francisco vessels in the above trades inward bound were only 10 per cent of the whole. It is apparent from the foregoing facts and figures that a vast amount of profit properly belonging to this State goes to outsiders because of the ownership of the freight carrying vessels elsewhere. For the purpose of contributing to the material prosperity of the State, and the retention of the profits legitimately belonging to her people, in interest have persevered in pushing forward the ship-building propositions until at the present time, a successful culmination is about to ensue.

Twenty years ago the first Puget Sound lumber was received at Mare Island Navy Yard, then in charge of Commodore Farragut. He admired its size and length and was surprised at the absence of defects which cause so great waste in the oak and pine of the East. Shortly after making a series of tests the Commodore remarked that the question of the strength of this lumber was forever settled, that of its durability alone remained to be tested hence the experiments conducted by the Commodore, the varied experience of our shipwrights, both in new work and repairs in vessels of various kinds, and on salt water and fresh has fully settled the enduring qualities of this wood. R H Waterman, United States Inspector of Hull, and Surveyor for London Lloyds and American Lloyds has written very enthusiastically of the utility of fir for ship building. He says that if he was to build a steam vessel for his own use either for ocean or coast service, he would prefer the Puget Sound yellow fir to any other wood, and would class her A 1 all other features being up to Lloyd's requirements. He has seen different steamers wholly constructed of Puget Sound yellow fir and from eight to ten years old, broken up or altered, lengthened or raised on, and found all sound, with the exception of those up-river boats that have always been running in fresh water. Beside wheel steamer Del Norte, 1,000 tons burden was built in 1863 under Captain Wakeman's supervision. The Puget Sound yellow fir and spruce vessels on the ocean service on this coast without signs of decay in any part. She was stranded and totally lost while returning from Alaska in 1867. The Del Norte was rated as A 1 her fastenings notwithstanding up to Lloyd's standard. Mr Hopkins in response to an inquiry from a local company, regarding Puget bound fir furnished some interesting facts in 1870. He reported that the bark Talisman of 608 tons single decked built in 1850 and the bark Northwest of 1,000 tons double decked, built in 1855 both vessels having been laundried from the yard of Meiggs & Gawley, at Port Madison W T, had been rated by the Board of Marine Underwriters of San Francisco at A 1 and A 1 respectively, and by some private surveyors at A 1 cleat. These vessels are built of Puget Sound yellow fir. After many years experience as an underwriter in this city, Mr Hopkins is satisfied that for length, strength and buoyancy no timber in the world is superior to the Puget Sound yellow fir for ship building purposes. Regarding the facilities for building vessels on this coast Mr. Hopkins made a comparison between the cost of lumber for a ship of 1,200 tons in Bath Me and at Puget Sound. The lumber at Puget Sound could be obtained for $14 997 in gold and at Bath it would cost $35 376 in gold, a difference a. $20 375 in favor of Puget Sound. This item of itself affords a wide margin for other items of construction that might cause more here than at Bath. The California laurel is the best wood for sterns stern pieces windlasses and chocks, but it cannot be used with any degree of safety except it is protected against the depredations of the wood boring beetle. Henry Edwards the entomologist says of this beetle that it eat wherever in the wood and its eggs remain in the wood several seasons. Manufacturing the wood does not necessarily destroy the eggs or larva. The United States steamer Saginaw which was built at Mare Island of laurel and oak, was not condemned for rottenness, as many supposed but for the reason that her timbers were completely perforated with the beetles. The beetles ruined this vessel in a very few months.

To the uninitiated it may seem strange that the natural facilities for ship building on this coast have not been thoroughly utilized. The fact is a prejudice has been created against coast-built vessels because of the rules adopted by underwriters in other parts of the world. These rules require vessels of the first class to be built of hard wood. The Puget Sound fir is unjustly placed on a par with the Eastern white pine spruce and hemlock and vessels built of the fir must perforce take the second class or soft wood vessel. These second class vessels, so rated cannot successfully compete for perishable cargoes such as tea wheat etc. Hence the sources of profit of our fir vessels have been measurably contracted. These vessels have however demonstrated the value of our timber resources and the skill of our shipwrights and these are great points gained.

The board of marine underwriters have lately taken a position in regard to the Puget Sound fir vessels which will insure to the advantage of our coast ship builders and encourage them to invest heavily in ship building enterprises. According to the instructions of the underwriters the board of surveyors have drawn up specifications for the guidance of ship builders. The specifications prescribe the size of the frame the character of rigging and ground tackle, and the mode of construction for vessels of 100 200 300 500 700, 1,000 and 1,500 tons. The specifications have been printed and will be ready for distribution in a few days. It has already transpired that vessels built in accordance with the specifications will be rated as A 1, and there are several persons awaiting the appearance of the little pamphlet before laying the keels for vessels. In this connection we may state that H H Watson has rated the Del Norte built by Captain Matthew Turner 15 A for seven years. In view of the exhibit made herein thought it by no means exhausts the subject it is natural that we should see cheering signs in the ship building outlook. It must be admitted that we have already turned out a large number of vessels and that some of these would do credit to any shipyard in the country but thus far we have only the beginnings of a great interest.

THURSDAY MORNING, APRIL 1, 1875.

CORRECTING THE RECORD.

On the 30th of April, 1862, a resolution, introduced by Henry L. Dawes, passed the Congressional House of Representatives, by which it was solemnly declared that Simon Cameron, then Secretary of War, "by involving the Government in a vast number of contracts with persons not legitimately engaged in the business pertaining to the subject matter of such contracts, especially in the purchase of arms for future delivery, has adopted a policy highly injurious to the public service, and deserves the censure of the House." This resolution was adopted by the decisive majority of 79 to 45, as appears by the Globe. But time, which it is said sets all things even, has at last brought Simon Cameron and the national House of Representatives to see eye to eye and to understand and appreciate each other perfectly. It were well if we could truthfully record that the process by which this has been accomplished was a process of elevating to higher purposes and cleaner methods the individual who received this severe and solemn condemnation at the hands of the representatives of his party, in the hour of its glory and the day of its integrity. It were pleasant if we could chronicle that after thirteen years of reflection after thirteen years of carrying in his soul the iron of this censure of his country and of the dismissal from the Cabinet, which followed it, the individual whose malfeasance called for so stern a sentence had brought forth fruits meet for repentance, and had shown by good works, if not by penance, that he deserved to be taken again into the confidence of his party and his country. Under such circumstances it would have been a graceful, if an unusual, thing, for the House of Representatives, before which such radical reformation was demonstrated, to pass a resolution of forgiveness and restoration.

But such was not the process, if we take the record of the last House for our guide. It was not that Mr. Cameron, the false and venal Secretary, came up to a level with the honest and patriotic Congress, but that the Congress went down to the level of Mr. Cameron, the false and venal Secretary. So must we read the following resolution, passed in the last hours of the late Congress, with relation to that of April 30, 1862:

Resolved, That this House, as an act of general justice to Mr. Cameron, and as a correction of its own records, hereby direct that said resolution be rescinded, and that the rescission be entered on the margin of the journal in the said resolution as recorded.

Undisturbed and unquestioned for thirteen years, made when the facts and the evidence were fresh in the minds of the members, and at a time when every consideration of patriotism demanded that such action be not taken unless upon overwhelming proof, this record of Congress is now declared by a body of men, of whom probably not one-half have even the benefit of a thirteen years' memory of the facts, to be unjust and untruthful, and is accordingly "corrected." Even the expunging of the resolutions of censure upon General Jackson, are no parallel for this case in any essential particular. It is safe to assert that at no other period in the history of our nation could such a resolution as this last one have passed the House under similar circumstances. But it passed nevertheless, and Mr. Cameron can console himself that one ugly record in his public career has been technically effaced. Whether or not the Representatives of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania will catch the inspiration and wipe out the three or four ugly things which have been spread upon the legislative records at Harrisburg concerning this model statesman of the period, remains to be seen.

EQUAL FACILITIES.

And now the ring organ makes Superintendent Gamble the central point in its fusilade on the Western Union Telegraph Company. The circumstance that has so excited the ire of the Bulletin toward Mr. Gamble is his sending a dispatch to the Superintendent of this district stating that the Bulletin had been offered and could get at any time the same facilities for telegraphic news, and at the same price, as the OREGONIAN. After saying directly that it "has no hesitation in telling Mr. Gamble his statement is not true," the organ proceeds:

Mr. Gamble occupies a position which should make him ashamed of such a contemptible subterfuge as the above. He has sense enough to know that the word "facilities" in his dispatch means something more than the use of the wires between Portland and San Francisco. It comprehends the use of his wires throughout the United States, and our connection with other news associations than the one located in his back room—the Associated Press—and these facilities the Bulletin is refused, and likewise the Alta, Chronicle and Post.

Yes, the word "facilities" does comprehend the use of the telegraph company's wires throughout the United States, and that the Bulletin can have on exactly the same terms as the OREGONIAN or any other journal; and, this without regard to the question of what news association the Bulletin buys its dispatches from. It is not true that the Bulletin, the Alta, the Chronicle or the Post, is excluded from "these facilities." The Alta, Chronicle and Post get their dispatches over another line of telegraph—the Atlantic and Pacific—and have never offered to deliver to the Western Union company for transmission the same dispatches taken by the other newspapers of San Francisco, nor any dispatches of any equal number of words. The Portland Bulletin occupies a position of unenviable solitude in its demand that the telegraph company furnish to it the special dispatches which are delivered to the company by the agents of other papers, for transmission. Such a demand by one merchant for a telegram belonging to another merchant, would very probably, if urged, bring the business career of the demandant to a halt—as, indeed, it seems likely to do in the case of the ring organ.

But another paragraph of the ring-organ's rabid attack on Mr. Gamble, and the Western Union Company, exhibits a new source of irritation in the ring organ's sore, and at the same time throws further light on the organ's views of what constitutes equality in business privileges. Complaint is made that the Western Union Telegraph Company charges the Bulletin higher rates per word for a short dispatch than it charges the OREGONIAN for a long one; and that is called unjust discrimination. If the OREGONIAN took a shorter dispatch it would have to submit to higher rates the same as the Bulletin. The same service for the same money—that is equality and equity; and it is just what the telegraph company offers the Bulletin, nothing more and nothing less. Can you buy from the merchants of Portland five pounds of sugar at the same price per pound that you can buy a barrel for? or can you get an order for a single barrel filled at the same rate at which you could get a hundred barrels? Not much. Or, to bring the matter a little nearer to the Bulletin office, suppose two men having wheat to ship from North Yamhill by the west-side road, should come to the editor of the ring organ, who is secretary and freight agent of that road, and is detailed to edit the ring organ as extra duty, to make their arrangements; one of them wishes to ship his wheat in lots of ten bushels each, while the other proposes to send his by the car load; will not the man who sends only ten bushels at a time have to pay a higher rate per bushel for transportation than he who ships by the car-load?

How about "equal facilities," Mr. West-side road!

WHAT WAS PROVED BEFORE THE COMMITTEE.

A few mornings since we said:

The telegraphing business of the United States is almost entirely in the hands of two companies—the Western Union and the Atlantic and Pacific—and either of these will send any dispatch over its wires without stopping to ask what news association or individual it is that asks to have the dispatch sent.

To which the man who "knows how to be civil," after quoting the paragraph, replied in the following exceedingly courteous remarks:

It is really surprising to see how much lying the OREGONIAN is willing to do for its monopoly telegraph. The statement that the Western Union Telegraph Company will send dispatches for the American Press Association has been proved to be a downright falsehood before a Congressional committee; and it won't send dispatches to papers outside of the Associated Press except at double the prices charged those papers inside of that ring.

We refer to this matter now not merely to give our readers an illustration of the dignity of bearing and elegance of diction which is imparted by a knowledge of "how to be civil," though that of itself were ample reason for returning to the subject; but to correct an error into which our "civil" neighbor has fallen. Instead of our statement being "proved to be a downright falsehood," it was proved to be an upright truth, before the only Congressional Committee that had the matter under consideration. The testimony of President Orton, of the Western Union Company was that the telegraph gave equal facilities to all persons and papers in the transmission of dispatches, charging all alike, and making no distinction whatever as to price or convenience of transmitting, among those who sent equal amounts of dispatches; and his testimony was so complete and satisfactory that the investigation fell as dead as Ben. Butler, at whose instigation it was set on foot.

All the leading papers of the East speak in the highest terms of Senator Christiancy's speech on the Louisiana question, delivered in the Senate in opposition to the admission of Pinchback. It has been pronounced the ablest and most convincing legal argument on the subject. It was characterized by that calm, temperate treatment of the grave question which distinguishes the lawyer from the mere attorney. And it settled Pinchback's case effectually. For this, his maiden service in the Senate, Judge Christiancy is to entitled and does receive the gratitude of the country and especially the gratitude of all true Republicans.

In reply to our question why the Bulletin raves so about not getting the Associated Press dispatches, if they are nothing but a tissue of falsehoods cooked up for private purposes, the organ says:

It is a right, a principle, we contend for, and not the result of that right put in operation.

That is just what we have been telling the people all the time. It is "not the result of that right put in operation" that the Bulletin wants; that is, it does not want to take the dispatches; it simply wants to make a fuss about them.

Wonder if the people of Forest Grove and Hillsboro could not add some interesting remarks on the subject of "equal facilities" for the transportation of produce on the west-side road. There are a great many facts connected with that particular department of the general subject of monopolies, which would make rare reading, besides affording practical views of the Bulletin ring's theories with respect to equal facilities."

This monopoly question will "return to plague the inventor."—Ring Organ.

Thus soon does the ring organ begin to see that a straightforward and truthful course would have been better for it than its "explanations" on "this monopoly question."

Mr. G. W. Murray will be a candidate before the voters of this district next Monday for the office of school clerk. It is needless to say anything about his fitness for the position to the people among whom he has lived so many years.

The proceedings of the Pennsylvania coal miners become more and more violent and the contagion of lawlessness spreads rapidly. Measures for the suppression of these outrageous proceedings should be vigorous and rigorous.

The editor of the ring organ announces that he "knows at least how to be civil," of which latest step in the acquisition of knowledge he is as proud as a boy is of his first pair of trousers. Well, it is a pleasant sort of knowledge to have.

Since the announcement by the editor of the ring organ that he has learned "how to be civil," we hear a good deal of conjecture on the streets as to whether he contemplates putting his newly acquired knowledge into practice.

We know at least how to be civil.—Bulletin.

Glad you mentioned it, as no one would have suspected such a thing.

It is a right, a principle, we contend for.—Bulletin.

The west-side railway contends for "a principle." That will do.

We know how to be civil.—Ring Organ.

That is an illustration of the power of a civil newspaper, like the OREGONIAN, as an educator of the masses.

PORTLAND, OREGON.

Is now making First-Class CARRIAGES, BUGGIES and CARTS of all kinds.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

At the Oregon State Fair, held at Salem, Mr. E. Smith was awarded a premium on an Open and also on a Top Buggy built from a design published in the Carriage Monthly, and on a Platform Spring Buggy. Mr. Smith also exhibited a fine specimen of the Philadelphia Carriage Monthly.

Mr. E. Smith, of Portland, had on exhibition at the State Fair two Buggies. They were neat and certainly exhibit as fine workmanship as can be found on the Coast. The latest improvements have been introduced in the same so as not to interfere with the easy riding the bolts through the springs. The enterprise that Mr. Smith has displayed in his establishment, and the excellent work that he turns out, should certainly entitle him to a liberal share of public patronage.—Salem Statesman.

Mr. E. Smith, Carriage Maker, of Portland, had on exhibited one Open and one Top Buggy at the State Fair Grounds, which were of his own design. These Carriages are especially adapted to the roads and those in need of a first-class vehicle should call upon Mr. Smith, whose establishment is on First street, where, of course, Mr. Smith will be found at his post of business.—New Northwest.

Mr. E. Smith, Carriage Maker, corner of Front and Jefferson streets, took the premium at the State Fair for First-Class Buggies. This is the highest premium for his work, and is a credit to the mechanical skill displayed.—Christian Advocate.

A SHOOTING AFFAIR.—We have obtained the following particulars of a shooting affair which occurred a few days since on the North Yamhill. It was an unsuccessful attempt made by an insane son to shoot his father, with a double-barreled shotgun. For some months past the son, who is a young man, has been quite ill. Of late his sickness assumed an unmistakable type of insanity. On Tuesday he, while laboring under great excitement, told his young wife he requested his sister to hand him the shotgun which was standing in another joining room. In order to pacify him she complied with the strange request. As soon as the weapon was brought to him, the young man hid it under the bedclothes. The father was standing outside, and on hearing his son make the singular request, he hastily entered the room to ascertain the cause. Just as he entered the door the young man raised up in bed, and cocking the weapon, discharged it at the father. One shot took effect in the forehead, inflicting a slight wound. Before the father could turn and escape from the room the son discharged the other barrel at him, most of the full charge lodging in the back and causing the father to fall to the floor. Our informant states that the injuries of the father are quite severe, and the result cannot be foretold. There is no doubt but what the son was laboring under a temporary fit of insanity at the time of the shooting.

TEA PARTY.—Masonic temple was crowded last evening with a gay throng, the occasion being the "old folks' tea party," given by the ladies of Trinity church. On one side of the hall were ranged several tables loaded down with an endless variety of needle work, etc., presided over by fair ladies, while scattered about the room were a number of tables covered with choice viands, where the inner man could be regaled at pleasure. These last mentioned tables were ornamented with very hand

TEA PARTY.—Masonic temple was crowded last evening with a gay throng, the occasion being the old folks' tea party given by the ladies of Trinity church On one side of the hall were ranged several tables loaded down with an endless variety of needle work etc, presided over by fair ladies, while scattered about the room were a number of tables covered with choice viands, where the inner man could be regaled at pleasure These last mentioned tables were ornamented with very handsome and costly silver ware of unique pattern, prominent among which were some fantastically shaped candlesticks The most of the ladies present were attired in the quaint costumes of ye olden Tyme, and presented a novel appearance Mirth, sociability and the best of feeling prevailed among those present The receipts of the evening were quite substantial To-day a lunch will be spread at the hall from 12 o'clock to 2 P M A cordial invitation is extended to the public

"OLDE FOLKES CONCERTE."—To-morrow evening an Olde Folkes Concerte will be given at Masonic Temple, for the benefit of the Home The music on the occasion will be furnished principally by the members of the Olympia Choral Club, numbering 26 persons—ladies and gentlemen The music will be of a quaint and unique character, being the airs and hymns that were sung more than a century ago One of the most attractive features of the entertainment will be the costumes worn by the singers, which are to be identical with those of our New England ancestry The "Concerte" gives every assurance of being a rich treat to our citizens, and as the entertainment is given in the interest of a most praiseworthy home institution, the large hall will doubtless be packed Reserved seats can be procured at the book store of Mr J K Gill until Friday morning, without extra charge. After that time, 25 cents will be charged for each reserved seat.

METROPOLITAN CO No 2.—This old and sterling company have moved both their steam fire engines, hose, etc., from the O S N Co's wharf to the new engine house. Considerable delay has been occasioned by the dampness of the new building, but the walls and plastering have sufficiently dried out so that the engines can be safely housed without fear of the steel, copper and brass works becoming tarnished. There was no formal "housing," such as is common among fire companies when a new house is dedicated The engines were placed in the new building without any ceremony, the customary "house-warming" having been postponed until the meeting room up stairs shall be finished and the elegant and magnificent furniture received It will probably be some weeks before this important event transpires.

FOUND DEAD.—We learn that a young German aged about nineteen years, whose name we have not been able to learn died very suddenly at Oregon City a few evenings since He was in perfect health up to a few minutes of his death. The young man stepped out of the house and a few minutes later was called by his mother to come to supper Receiving no answer the mother opened the door, and discovered her son lying on the steps quite dead He is supposed to have died from heart disease or apoplexy But little is known of the family, as they removed to Oregon City only a short time ago No inquest was held over the body

NUMBER OF ARRESTS.—During the month of March 94 arrests have been made by the police force, classified as follows Drunk and disorderly 50, obscene and abusive language 5, throwing broken glass into the streets 1 vagrancy 3, obtaining money under false pretences 1, disorderly conduct by fighting 5 assault and battery 9 larceny, 8 defacing a building, 2 violating ordinance 1439 by keeping a saloon in which women are employed as waitresses, 1, assault with a dangerous weapon, 1

DIVORCES SOLD.—The Jacksonville Times says "We learn that Judge J H Reed has sold his Galice creek placer diggings, ditch, etc, to an English company. Arrangements are about or have been consummated for the transfer, and the price agreed upon is said to be over $30 000 Other parties have also sold to the same persons at good figures These mines are some of the best on the coast and under proper management will yield largely The company will work them on an extensive scale

S S CONCERT.—The Baptist Sunday school held a very entertaining concert on Sunday evening "The pupils recited a number of scriptural verses with great accuracy. Two or three new voices in the choir greatly improved the singing. Mr Dolph the newly elected superintendent made a very appropriate address to the school Miss Ida Roberts delivered in good style a fine recitation on the "Creation" The exercises throughout were quite interesting and profitable.

THE PHILOMATHEAN SOCIETY.—A number of ladies and gentlemen visited this society at Nonpareil Hall on Monday evening Mr P J Keeler presented the society a Webster's Unabridged Dictionary, purchased with funds subscribed by friends Considerable interest was taken in the debate The other exercises were creditably rendered

WEST SIDE MAIL.—The Oregon Central Railroad Company having been awarded the contract for carrying the mails between Portland and St. Joe, the same will go into effect today Daily mails will hereafter leave here at 2:30 o'clock P M and arrive at 10:30 A M Mr Frank Hussey will act as mail agent on the west side road

WASHED AWAY.—A large quantity of debris which had been thrown into an old run about forty feet long near the corner of Clay and Fifth streets was washed away on Monday leaving a deep excavation the place will be impassable by teams until filled up

SINGING SCHOOL.—Last night at the academy a singing school was held led by Professor I W Shaffer. Despite the rain quite a number of persons attended and joined heartily in the singing some of the pieces being rendered for the academy concert

TREASURE SHIPMENT.—During March the following shipments of treasure were made to San Francisco by Wells Fargo & Co's express Currency $30 008 43 Gold coin $225 050 75 Bullion, $8,032, silver coin, $ 674 10

Mr Ludwig is causing a place to be graded down and leveled off, to the rear of his brewery in East Portland, preparatory to constructing a number of bowers for the coming summer trade When finished, it will be a nice shady retreat

AMUSEMENTS.

THEATER.—The attendance at this new and popular place of amusement continues to be quite good, considering the stormy weather The company are becoming more accustomed to the new field of action, and now theatergoers may anticipate better of the new people Last evening a programme was an entertaining one consisting of two plays in which Mr Herne appeared to advantage We saw a very little of the first play, "One Hundred Thousand pounds" but the closing scene was sufficient to indicate that it was of an enjoyable nature Miss Ridie Deaves appeared once more in her silver clog and was warmly received The little lady will become a favorite As Solon Shingle, Mr. Herne thoroughly disguised himself and fully sustained his reputation in the character The other members in the cast acquitted themselves to the satisfaction of all present.

The orchestra under Mr. Bray, has become a feature and that gentleman is constantly preparing new music for production during the season An addition to the department is anticipated next week. The programme of last evening will be reproduced to-night We hope to see Couldock a specialty of the Chimney Corner put on the stage ere Mr Herne's engagement closes Oliver Twist is in preparation

WRECKED.

THE BARK ARCHITECT STRANDED UPON CLATSOP SPIT AND GOES TO PIECES

In our last issue it was intimated that the bark Architect which was stranded on Clatsop beach last Monday had in all probability gone to pieces The news which reached us yesterday from Astoria confirms the apprehensions felt on that score The vessel went to pieces on Tuesday despite all efforts made to get her off In attempting to sail over the wind did away and the bark after drifting over a portion of the spit was compelled to come to anchor. It was in close proximity to the shore when the Archite t came to the relief and the tide low When the tide came in she was entirely submerged the water at times standing several feet deep on the deck The crew could not remain on deck and spent the whole night up in the rigging The vessel being quite old the strain kept in started the seams and she soon filled with water On Tuesday morning the tug went down to lend what assistance might be necessary either to get the vessel off or carry away the crew It was found impossible to get near the stranded craft with the tug, so she started down to the Light to get a life-boat with which to rescue the crew It was evident the vessel would have to be abandoned A life boat was obtained the vessel reached and all the crew brought safely away Not a life was lost nor did any accident happen Soon after the crew was rescued the bark went to pieces She was a total wreck.

The Architect was owned by the Centerville Milling Company and has for several years been plying between Knappton and San Francisco engaged principally in the lumber trade She had a cargo on board at the time she went ashore and was coming in ballast

The Architect was built in the year 1855 at Rockland Maine by H Merman She had a registered capacity of 249 tons was a single decker dimensions 127 feet long, 28 feet beam and 12 feet hold was built of oak and hackmatack wood copper and iron fastened half poop full model We are unable to estimate the loss or state whether the vessel was insured or not

THE POPE ON PROTESTANTISM

In an allocution addressed to the parish priests of Rome February 4th the Pope after remarking that there are now temples at Rome consecrated to Jupiter Mercury or Venus said "But after all this is not much There are Protestant churches If it may be said that they are less dangerous, they are nevertheless a matter of financial affliction At Rome chosen by God to be the capital of the great Catholic family ennobled by the blood of the martyrs—at Rome itself adorned with the title of mistress of the truth—within the walls of that Rome where the majestic temples of the Christian religion rise one cannot see without grief the establishment by the side of these temples of halls and meeting places where it is pretended to murder to God the worship rendered to Him by heresy which is a revolt against God Himself But what above all ought to excite your zeal as pastors of souls is the opening of certain schools where gene ally speaking impiety rules as mistresses and seeks by all means to corrupt childhood and youth To prevent the consequences of so great an evil you must employ all the means of which you can dispose to prevent the corruption of so many young souls for this corruption might by degrees insinuate itself into families and propagate the pest of unbelief"

HOW MUCH BETTER IS A HORSE THAN A MAN!

We clip this from the Philadelphia Times

Doble the famous horse artist has lately brought his wonderful horse Occident from San Francisco to the East to prepare for the spring meetings, which commence about the 1st of May The car in which Occident made the journey is described as being especially designed for the ease and comfort of race horses Stalls padded with Brussels carpet beds for the horses to lean in wire screens for the windows to keep the sparks from his eyes a locator to keep him warm, a refrigerator to keep him cool, hot water for his feet, a boudoir with frescoed walls and ceilings for his keeper, chairs, lounges lace curtains mirrors, silver lamps and a side-board of fine wines for his guests and admirers So much for a horse Meanwhile the horse car drivers receive two dollars a day for seventeen hours work are allowed ten minutes for meals and five hours for sleep and receive their discharge when their strength is gone, which with this sort of treatment is not likely to survive few months service.

THE BEAR IN WINTER.—A writer in the Popular Science Monthly says One of the most curious characteristics of the bear is its habit of hibernating through the winter During the autumn it becomes very fat, and about the end of October completing its winter house ceases feeding for the year A remarkable phenomenon then takes place in the animal's digestive organs The stomach no longer supplied with food contracts into a very small space A mechanical obstruction called the tappen composed of fine leaves or other extraneous substances blocks the alimentary canal and prevents the outward passage of any matter The bear continues in this state until the middle of April in full health and vigorous condition If disturbed and killed at any time in the period it is found to be as fat as at the beginning It is said however that if it loses the "tappen" before the end of its hibernation it immediately becomes extremely thin During the hibernation the bear gains a skin upon the balls of his feet and during the same time also the female bear brings forth her young from two to four in number The latter occurs generally from the middle of January to the middle of February The pairing season occurs in the summer from June to September The period of gestation is about seven months and the newly born cubs are scarcely larger than puppies.

PRETENDERS LOANS.—The Paris correspondent of the Cologne Gazette writes As I have communicated to you already the ex Empress has again made a loan of 12 500 000 francs—for she has received this sum on the promise that it will be paid back after the accession of Henry V to the throne The former loans made by her circulate in secret on the Bourse The obligations are printed on rose colored paper, and have a nominal value of 100 francs, 500 francs and 1 000 francs After the acquisition of Paul de Cassagnac this scrip rose from ten to twenty francs This is naturally no longer the case The Carlist loan circulates also much at the Bourse here Each obligation of this loan is for 2 000 francs on which 240 francs have been paid After Don Carlos accession to the throne 240 francs are still to be paid on each obligation and the bearer of this to receive then 1 000 francs Spanish stock according to the quotations of the day It must be said for the French Bonapartes and for Spanish Bourbons that they know how to turn their calamities to advantage even before occupying the throne

DOWN IN MISSOURI.—A farmer in Missouri has made a calculation about dogs which may set the Grangers of the State to thinking. He says that in thirty-two counties 10,692 sheep have been killed by dogs Allowing two dogs for each family which is really less than the actual number he estimates the number of dogs in them to be 462 000. The amount of food necessary to keep a fair sized dog will keep on hog in the ring, and on which the dog at twelve months would weigh 200 pounds If this dog went to the hogs it would make for the whole number of dogs 92 000 000 pounds of pork. This would yield 1 400 cans—but to be conservative let us say 1 000 cans per hog. 92 000 000 nearly will be divided for all the school houses in the State and more than the amount used by the State for school purposes

When old Sam Crowder was in the war running for Justice of the Peace he was the great question of honor in store for her sex "My dear, when you go to the Justice of the Peace what will I be?" "You send old Sam why, you'll be the same old fool you always were"

Mr Jones has been vigorously prospecting on his land on Coos Bay to coal and has found a fine ledge about a half a mile from deep water on the Isthmus slough nearly opposite Coos City The coal is about eighty feet above high water and a railroad to the shipping point can be very easily and conveniently built

A FORT IN FLAMES.

A DANGEROUS FIRE INSIDE FORT HAMILTON, NEW YORK.

The Brooklyn Union of March 4th says: An alarm of fire at Fort Hamilton repelled this city last night at about 7:45 o'clock. A reporter at once started for the scene of the conflagration. The severe storm and the snow drifts impeded locomotion, not only in the case of the street cars, but also engines 1 and 3, ordered to the fire by Chief Engineer Nevins, and accompanied by President F. S. Massey in a wagon. The fierce wind drove the snow in the faces of the firemen, but they urged on the horses, and arrived in good time. At the village of Fort Hamilton all was excitement. The whole place was lit up with a lurid glare against a background of dense smoke. A report was in circulation that the powder magazine was in danger, and dreadful forebodings filled the minds of all. It was ascertained that the fire originated in the quarters of Lieutenant Hess, and thence spread to the kitchen, a row of two-story frame buildings just outside the casemate on the north side of the old fort. There was great consternation when the fire was found to be beyond immediate control. The first thought and action were in behalf of the officers' wives and children. These were hurried out of the quarters to places of safety, and then orders were given to look after the powder magazine, located not more than thirty feet from the fire. The flames were left to have their own way while the powder was removed, which was done in good order and without accident. The high wind fanned the flames, and when the fire was at its height—

THE SCENE AROUND THE FORT

Was awfully grand. The Narrows and the Bay were illuminated with a weird light; in the midst of which old Fort Lafayette in the river loomed up like a ghost.

The fire apparatus of the fort proved to be of no service whatever. The Brooklyn firemen, under the efficient aid of Captain McKellar, Sergeant Floyd, and twelve men from the Eighth Police precinct of this city, fought the fire with their accustomed bravery, and at 11 o'clock had it completely under control. Assistance was also rendered by the soldiery under directions of General Getty, in command of the fort. Justice Church, whose residence is near by, was the first citizen at the fort, and rendered valuable assistance, but his best activity and forethought were displayed in telegraphing to the city by the Western Union Company's line. The loss to the United States is variously estimated at from $10,000 to $20,000, and none of the property was insured.

Lieutenant Hess, when asked to account for the origin of the fire, thought it possible that it might have been caused by the heater in his room. General Getty said that the fire broke out while Lieutenant Hess was absent at supper. When an attempt was made to get into the room it was so full of smoke that the men were driven back. The hogs they had was of little use, and so they had not undertaken to fight the flames, but to care for the families of the officers, and the powder.

FORT HAMILTON WAS ERECTED

About forty years ago. It is composed of four granite walls inclosing a quadrangle about 200 by 600 feet. The walls are protected by earth embankments. Connected with the walls are a series of wooden casemates affording quarters for officers and men. The fire destroyed five of these casemates. The companies stationed in the fort comprise about 250 men. They will be able to find quarters elsewhere in the fort until the casements just destroyed are rebuilt. The scene of the fire reminded many of that by which all but the walls of old Fort Lafayette were destroyed some four years ago.

POLITENESS PAYS.

THE LUCK OF A YOUNG DEPARTMENT CLERK IN WASHINGTON.

A true story is told of a young clerk in the Treasury Department at Washington who is in luck, and whose good fortune was brought about by an act of politeness towards an old Englishman and his handsome daughter. While the British High Joint Commission was in session in Washington years ago, a London merchant came over to watch a claim of his which was before the Commission. He brought his daughter with him, and the two had much leisure time on their hands, which they occupied seeing the sights in the various public buildings. One day they called at the Treasury Department, and the clerk referred to showed them through. He was very polite, probably very much interested, and made himself agreeable and useful to the strangers. He engaged to show them something or pilot them somewhere else the next day, and the next, and the old man and his daughter gladly accepted these repeated offers of kindness. Of course the parties became well acquainted, and it is not surprising that there should have grown up a mutual liking. The young man was a welcome visitor at the apartments of the English strangers between whiles.

At length the merchant finished his business in Washington and he and his daughter turned their faces homeward across the sea, leaving at least one warm personal friend in America. Some months since the young clerk resigned his position in the department and left Washington for, no one knew where. The other day he returned with a wife, and has been warmly welcomed by his old friends. The rest of the story is very simple and natural. He corresponded with his English friends after they left, and especially with the young lady. One day he received a letter from her stating that her father had died leaving her all his fortune, and also leaving her very lonely and heartbroken. The young man's sympathies were aroused. It was his plain duty to go and see her, keep her company and try to amend her fractured heart. He took the chances, left his situation, went to London and was soon at her side. In a few months the couple were married, and the wife, the poor young clerk brought back to Washington was the pretty English girl to whom he was polite some years before. It always pays—politeness!

SLEEPLESSNESS.—To take a hearty meal just before retiring is, of course, injurious, because it is very likely to disturb one's rest, and produce nightmare. However, a little food at this time, if one is hungry, is decidedly beneficial; it prevents the gnawing of an empty stomach, with its attendant restlessness and unpleasant dreams, to say nothing of probable headache, or of nervous and other derangements, the next morning. One should no more lie down at night hungry than he should lie down after a very full dinner; the consequence of either being disturbing and harmful. A cracker or two, a bit of bread and butter, or cake, a little fruit—something to relieve the sense of vacuity, and so restore the tone of the system—is all that is necessary. We have known persons, habitual sufferers from restlessness at night, experience material benefit, even though they were not hungry, by a very light luncheon before bed-time. In place of tossing about for two or three hours, as formerly, they would soon grow drowsy, fall asleep, and not awake more than once or twice before sunrise. This mode of treating insomnia has recently been recommended by several distinguished physicians, and the prescription has generally been attended with happy results.—Scribner for March.

Gold Bars 802.

Latest Liverpool wheat quotations 9s 2d for average California ex warehouse, and 9s 3d@9s 4d for club.

Again it seems that the gold ring in New York has been foiled, at least partially, in its attempt to bull the market, and the price has gone down below 115. The fight is a hard one, and both parties are playing a desperate game, either being equally as regardless as the other of the country's financial welfare. We believe, however, that the highest point has been reached, as the flow of treasure toward New York, which set in about the middle of the month now closing is reported to still continue, and it would seem with the immense supply which has been accumulating in that market that it would be impossible for the comparatively small number of men who are attempting the forcing process to drive gold up any further than at present.

As the spring advances it becomes evident that the conservative disposition which has characterized the action of leading financial establishments throughout the country since the great panic of 1873 will be followed as closely as ever in the season upon which we are now entering. Those who are in a position to know inform us that there is really a full supply of capital in reach of all who are disposed to invest in any of the avenues of industry or enterprises of the country, but that its distribution will be most carefully watched, and if possible more securely guarded than in the past. Depressions which may occur in securities upon which loans are granted, must be taken into account, and paper offered for discount must be devoid of anything that has the slightest tinge of suspicion. This might be reckoned a hardship on some who would be borrowers, but in addition to the assurance which the policy gives to the lender, it enables him to afford easier terms on first-class paper or other security than would be possible had he to provide for contingent losses.

In exchange, noting the condition of affairs generally in trade matters at the East, think the movement in breadstuffs during the third week in March was quite satisfactory, but at Chicago and New York receipts were getting lighter for a few days, up to the 21st, transportation being retarded by the destruction of bridges by the ice floods. Throughout what New York calls the "West," the accumulation is quite large. Owners are firm and appear to think that the excess will be wanted at high prices. The cold weather will prolong the planting until very late in the season, thereby bringing about a late harvest. Some of the winter wheat is said to be frozen out.

The Amended Tariff Laws.

The act of Congress "to amend existing tariff and revenue laws" which was recently passed by Congress and signed by the President, seems not yet to be fully understood. As some of the changes which it makes are of general interest we compile a few items from the law, relating to duties on imports.

Barrels and bags of American manufacture when exported, filled with American products, or exported empty and returned filled with foreign products, may be returned to the United States free of duty.

All still wines imported in casks 10 cents per gallon; all still wines imported in bottles $1 60 per case of dozen bottles, not more than a quart each; or 24 bottles not more than a pint each, and 3 cents per pint or fractional part thereof for any excess beyond these quantities.

Hops 8 cents per pound; Tamarinds and vermicelli two cents per pound. Tin in plates or sheets and terne and taggers tin 7½ cents per pound. Anchovies and sardines 15 cents per box, 7½ cents per half box, and 4 cents per quarter box, and when imported in any other form 60 cents ad valorem.

Spun silk for filling in skeins or caps 35 per cent ad valorem.

Floss silks 35 per cent ad valorem. Sewing silk in the gum or purified 40 per cent.

Lastings, mohair cloth, silk twist or other manufactures of cloth woven or made in patterns of such size and shape as to be fit for buttons exclusively, ten per cent. All other goods made of silk, of which silk is the material of chief value, sixty per cent., all ad valorem. A proviso excepts all goods which have as a component material twenty-five per cent. or over in value of cotton, flax, wool or worsted.

From the part of the law relating to internal revenue the only changes of general interest are as follows: All internal revenue documentary stamps which have been rendered obsolete by repeal of taxes, will not be redeemed, unless presented to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue before October 1, 1875. The provision relating to stamps on bank checks was amended by striking out the words "at sight or on demand," so that it now reads:

Bank check, draft, order or voucher for the payment of any sum of money whatsoever, drawn upon any bank, banker or trust company, two cents.

Retail dealers in liquors shall pay twenty-five dollars. Wholesale dealers one hundred dollars. Retail dealers in malt liquors twenty dollars. Wholesale dealers in malt liquors fifty dollars. Provided that no brewer shall be required to pay a special tax as a wholesale dealer by reason of selling in the original stamped packages.

Miscellaneous.

California dispatched seventeen cargoes of wheat and flour to Europe during the first three weeks in March.

Our latest mail dates from Australia are February 14th. A portion of the California flour and wheat by the Mikado and Macleod had been sold, the former at £11 per ton, and the latter at 4s 6d per bushel. The wheat crop of South Australia shows an average of fourteen bushels to the acre so far as harvested, which indicates a surplus of 250,000 tons for export. The shipments for the second week in February amounted to 3,500 tons. Vessels were being chartered to load coal for San Francisco, and thence with wheat to Europe. Oregon salmon had declined to $2 15@2 25 a dozen 1-lb tins.

Thirteen cargoes of wheat and flour have been shipped to Europe from Oregon since the 1st of January. During the corresponding time last year 26 cargoes were cleared.

The New York market for hops continued dull despite the light receipts, which are now only from 200 to 300 bales per week. The total quantity received this season to date is 69,300 bales, of which 15,200 bales have been shipped out of the country. The receipts this year are over ten per cent. larger than last year, but the export trade has also been more active. The best quotation for prime hops in New York now is 33@36c for State, and 32@35c for California.

The owners of the ship David Crockett believe in keeping their vessel moving, even at a low rate of freight, and have just accepted £2 to go to Liverpool with wheat from San Francisco.

San Francisco papers of the 25th say: "Oregon is in this market for tonnage. Three large vessels have already been chartered here this month to go in ballast and load wheat at Astoria for England. The latest engagement of this kind is the J. A. Thompson. The other two were the Lennox Castle and Pactolus.

The new ship Continental, now loading at New York for San Francisco, has been sold for $112,000, including her freight list. This vessel registers 1,651 tons. There is but little doing in the freight line at Boston for San Francisco.

There are now thirty-two sugar plantations in the Hawaiian Islands, and according to reports received by the Macgregor, will produce this year 30,000,000 lbs. Under the Reciprocity Treaty the whole product will come to this State and California.

A recent decision in an English court has attracted some attention in commercial circles. The case was an action on a charter-party against the owner of the ship Thorwaldsen by the shipper of a cargo of timber alleged to have been lost by the negligence of the captain and the unseaworthiness of the vessel. It was proved by the plaintiff's counsel that on several previous voyages the ship had been barely kept afloat, being water-logged, or in a very leaky condition all the time, the repairs only in the meantime having been entirely insufficient to prevent her from leaking. Although the defense contended, to use Lord Coleridge's expression, that the vessel was "the very finest ever seen in the country," and was safer with a deck-load than without, the jury found that she was not seaworthy, and gave a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for £1,543, and £420 for advances.

Shipping Intelligence.

The bark Rival and schooner Dreadnought are discharging freight at Flanders' wharf and will be ready to receive return cargoes in a few days.

The Ajax will be due from San Francisco on Friday night.

The California is about due from Sitka.

The La Becogne will be ready to go down the river in a day or two, having a large part of her cargo of flour already on board.

The vessels now at Astoria to load are the ships Success and Pactolus, and the bark Lennox Castle, the cargoes of all of which are said to be in sight.

The steamer Cassie Telfair goes to Neah Bay, Port Townsend and other Puget Sound ports only, on this trip, instead of Sitka, as before stated.

The American ship J. A. Thompson, 1,134 tons register, has been chartered in San Francisco to load wheat and flour at Astoria for England.

The British ship Lizzie C. Thomson crossed the bar on Tuesday, bound for Europe with a cargo of flour.

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—In this cereal, so far, the current week has developed nothing new; except it be a tendency to greater firmness, and a reduction in the volume of offers. Many of the warehouses which were full at the beginning of the season are empty, or the contents already purchased by exporters or others, and the bulk of the remainder yet for sale in the State is not remote from the lines of transportation, and the roads are so bad as to preclude the farmers from hauling to the river or railroads, that a number of mills in the Interior are reported to be short of wheat for grinding and are temporarily shut down. That the surplus is by no means exhausted is quite true, but matters will be compelled to rest somewhat quiet until the roads are better and a supply can be hauled back from the river can be hauled. We hear of a few transactions at the current quotation of $1 40 per cental.

FLOUR—There is some demand for shipping, but most of the mills are grinding under contract. The Salem mills are loading the La Becogne; the Magnolia and the Albany mills will each ship about 1,000 barrels on the vessels now in port, and there is perhaps not more of surplus in the market than 15,000 or 18,000 barrels of leading brands, which is held at our last quotations of $4 75 per bbl for standard extra. Inferior brands are unchanged.

OATS—The market is more quiet and few lots are coming in since the price thoroughly relieves buyers of fear of anything above 40 cents per bushel, the range of quotations being 35@40c.

BARLEY—The demand is fair for local consumption, but receipts are very light. Quotable nominally at $1 25@1 50 per hundred lbs for good, feed and $1 35@1 40 for choice brewing.

MILL FEED—There is a scarcity of bran, shorts and middlings, but chopped feed is in fair supply. We quote jobber's prices for bran at $13@14 per ton, middlings $27@28, shorts $20.

HAY—Is still in moderate request at $10@11 per ton for timothy, with a decline in the receipts. Wild hay finds slow sale at $7@7 50.

POTATOES—There is a fair demand and good lots for shipment at 75@85c per bushel, the range of quotations being 70@75c.

ONIONS—The demand is rather duller again, and $3@3 25 are given as buyers' figures.

APPLES RIPE—Receipts, though decreasing in quantity, are larger than was anticipated at the time of the freeze, and quotations are now 75@85 per box; less qualities, assorted and neatly packed for shipment.

APPLES DRIED—The trade is inactive, but prices are nominally steady at 3c p lb, in sacks, and 6c in kegs.

BACON—Shipments are being made of the surplus in this market, to San Francisco, where prices are quoted 12½@13c as an impossible figure. Our quotations for sides are 11@12c lb, hams 13@14c, shoulders 8½@9c. Receipts are not very large so far this week.

LARD—There is a fair demand for good quality in tins and kegs, quotable at 14c p lb for the former and 13c in kegs.

BUTTER—The market is bare of choice lots, and short on all saleable qualities. We quote at 40c per lb for best roll, and 30@35c for common.

EGGS—Receipts are lighter, and we quote at 18c per dozen.

CHICKENS—Good lots quotable at $4 50; choice $5 75@5 per dozen; common, $3 75@4 25.

DRESSED HOGS—The packing season having closed, the only demand is for the home trade and is not brisk at 6@6½c p lb.

BEEF CATTLE—There have been but few arrivals of choice lots during the past week, and for such the bulk of the inquiry is for cows. We quote at 4@5c per lb net on foot; ordinary quotable at 3@3½c.

MUTTON SHEEP—There are very few lots offering, and choice are worth $3 25@3 75 a head, and some of the extreme of $4.

HIDES AND FURS—A duller demand for shipping purposes prevails and receipts are light. We quote for choice dry 16@16½c p lb; green salted, 7c; green, 4½@5c; culls, 10@12c; deer, 25@30c per lb, dried, and 50@75c apiece green; mink skins each, 50@1 50; otter, $2@5; beaver, 75c@$1.

WOOL—Very few transactions are taking place; best grades quotable at 30@32c p lb; common to fair lots, 16@18c.

San Francisco Markets.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured to so wide a reputation, or maintained it so long as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of remarkable cures that have won for it a confidence in its virtues, never equalled by any other medicine. Such a record makes the most effectual guarantee of its merits, and gives a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, that is well founded if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in the house, and no traveller should be without it. Thousands, suffering and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords by its timely use in sudden attacks.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR

TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY & COLOR.

Advancing years, sickness, care, disappointment and hereditary predisposition, all turn the hair gray, and either of them incline it to shed prematurely. Ayer's Hair Vigor, by long and extensive use, has proven that it stops the falling of the hair immediately; often renews the growth, and always surely restores the color, even when faded or gray. It stimulates the nutritive organs to healthy activity, and preserves both the hair and its beauty. Thus brashy, weak or sickly hair becomes glossy, pliable and strengthened; lost hair regrows with lively expression; falling hairs checked and established; thin hair thickened, and faded or gray hair resumes their original color. Its operation is sure and harmless. It cures dandruff, heals all humors, and keeps the scalp cool, clean and pure—under which conditions, diseases of the scalp are impossible.

As a dressing for ladies' hair, the Vigor is prized for its grateful and agreeable perfume, and valued for the soft lustre and freshness of tone it imparts.
